THE

Heroine of the Strait.

By MARY CATHERINE CROWLEY,

Author of "A Daughter of New France."

PUBLISHED TO-DAY.

A second romance of Old Detroit, even more interesting than "A Daughter of New France," by the same author. Its principal events, dramatically related, are the surrender of Detroit to the English, the Conspiracy of Pontiac, and the siege of Detroit by the Indians under his command. Veritable characters serve only as a foundation for the creative work of the author's imagination. With a pretty love story which ends happily.

NOTES IN SEASON.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish on the 25th inst. "At the Back and Beyond," delineations of Irish life, by Jane Barlow, author of "Irish Idylls."

THE RIGGS PUBLISHING CO., 1123 Broadway, New York, will publish on the 25th inst., John Kendrick Bangs's new book entitled "Uncle Sam, Trustee." The object of the author is to prove that the United States has done its duty by Cuba as is witnessed by the improvements already wrought in Cuba's sanitary, educational, social and political condition. The author's argument, presented in his charming style, is reinforced with 100 reproductions of photographs showing the contrast between Cuba past and present.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. announce a volume of timely and interesting essays by Charles Francis Adams, entitled "Lee at Appomattox, and Other Papers." They cover a wide range—two are upon the war now going on in South Africa; one is upon the need of a higher tone in our political discussions; another deals with "The Treaty of Washington;" and the closing paper, "A Plea for Military History," is a criticism of the defective treatment of military operations by historians. "Eternalism: a Theory of Infinite Justice," by Orlando J. Smith, is described as "a stimulating argument for the pre-existence of the soul," the author claiming that "creation and annihilation are alike unknown to science," and that "our own idea of Infinite Justice can be satisfied by nothing less than the theory of re-incarnation." A book in a reminiscent vein is John Corbin's "An American at Oxford," which covers the whole range of college activities, outdoor and indoor life, athletics and clubs, etc., and deals with the history of Oxford, its splendid past and its great influence on English life. Abbie Farwell Brown, author of "The Lonesomest Doll," etc., has written another book for children, entitled "In the Days of Giants," stories of the gods, giants and dwarfs of Norse mythology. The book will have six illustrations by E. Boyd Smith.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. publish to-day Mary Catherine Crowley's new story "The Heroine of the Strait," a second romance of old Detroit, that is said to be even more interesting than the author's previous book "A Daughter of New France." The principal events dramatically related in the new book are the surrender of Detroit to the English, the conspiracy of Pontiac and the siege of Detroit by the Indians under his command. The book contains seven illustrations by C. Grunwald. The first edition was exhausted before publication. They will publish in May a book entitled "The Queen of Quelparte," which has its scene laid near Japan shortly after the war between China and that country. The chief motive of the story is a Russian intrigue to throw the Island of Quelparte into the hands of Japan as a sop for the possession of Port Arthur by the Czar, and the efforts of the Chinese, directed by Prince Tuen, to prevent this. The story is written by Archer B. Hulbert, who edited the Korean Independent during the historic struggle, and a great many facts are woven into this romantic novel. They also announce a novel by a new Polish writer, translated by Jeremiah Curtin; "A Maid of Bar Harbor," a charming story of Mt. Desert, by Henrietta G. Rowe, with illustrations by Ellen W. Ahrens; and "Wharf and Fleet, ballads of Gloucester fishermen," by Clarence M. Falt, with illustrations from photographs. They have just completed the publication of a subscription edition of the works of Samuel Lover—the Treasure Trove Edition—in ten volumes.

It is to this woman his dream relates. How much an episode he recalls, while convalescing, is fact and how much a dream, he cannot determine. But he believes he loves the unknown, and travels all over the world to find her again.

A historical romance of the time of Frederick Barbarossa, emperor of Germany in the middle of the twelfth century. The emperor, having fallen in love with his ward, the Countess Matilda, obtains a divorce from his wife in order to marry the countess; but she refuses, being herself in love with young Hohenzollern. The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

APRIL 12, 1902.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

INCIVILITY TO DRUMMERS.

SOMEBODY'S "Representative" is always calling—in every guise and disguise. Sometimes he is a gentleman admirably disguised in plain habiliments; again, he is a cad thinly disguised as a gentleman. Either may be recognized at sight, and each may be treated according to his deserts. But there is no need of treating either one discourteously, for the time may come when both the gentlemanly drummer and the cad may be in a position to give the person on whom he calls an advantage that may be of the greatest importance to him.

A buyer once confided to another buyer, that he had "no use for drummers—had no time to waste on them." Well, we have no hesitation in saying that the drummers certainly could not afford to waste their time on so barren a fig tree as he was. How dwarfed the idea of such a man, how limited his opportunities! What a narrow channel his business must have flown through! What a curiosity in this pushing, progressive enlightened age—an age, as some one has said, in which "the world is one huge bass drum, and its inhabitants one colossal 'drummer,' banging it with might and main"—all except the fellow who has "no use for travelling men."

Every successful business will bear witness to the fact that it does not pay to pass the travelling men lightly by, for as a rule they are a mine of information gathered in their circuits. Very often the good will of the drummer may mean a new customer for the retailer; perhaps a "pointer" on a new way of doing things; or a snap job lot, or something else worth having. Even if it were no more than having his horizon enlarged, or his humor improved, the retailer would not be out of pocket for having treated the "drummer" courteously. If he cannot fill the drummer's order book, any merchant can do the next best thing—fill his heart with joy and his soul with energy by extending a cordial hand and a courteous greeting, that need not cost more than sixty seconds of time in giving, and the impression of which will last as many hours.

A LITTLE while ago it was a real estate agent up country that closed out an unlimited number of copies of limited editions of a dozen or twenty sets of books to close out an unlimited number of estates. Now it is a bookbinder in Nassau Street, New York, who is making the remarkable offer of closing out thirty sets of authors whose works were "privately printed, the edition being limited to 100 numbered copies," at "the bare cost of the material and labor that [he] actually put into the job" of binding them. We wonder how many more such offers will be made by other bookbinders throughout the country.

CURIOUS ITEMS OF BOOKBINDING.

IT seems a somewhat surprising statement to make that eggs, condensed milk, olive oil and vinegar are all used in the binding of books. Yet such is the case. The white of egg is used for "sizing," to cause the delicate ornamental golf-leaf to adhere to the leather. To make the "sizing" perform its adhesive work even more delicately, a little milk is added; and, to help further in the important work of adhesion, a coating of olive oil or diluted vinegar is sometimes applied to the leather. The expert who manages the immense bindery of Harper & Brothers said to a visitor, who had gone there to watch the rush of work on the "New Encyclopædia of United States History," that he has seen wise old bookbinders use the light froth of ale as a coating over a binding of silk. The froth held the gold-leaf with perfect success, and did not stain the silk. Many of the old expert bookbinders have little secret methods of their own by which to produce peculiarly fine results, and these secrets they guard as jealously as the housewife does her favorite family recipes.

THE PRO AND CON OF ROYCROFTIE.

BY GEORGE FRENCH.*

THE story of the Roycroft shop and its output, and its outputter, has again been told by Elbert Hubbard; and close upon the heels of his story comes its antithesis from the lips of Michael Monahan, that gritty Irishman of letters who was taken to East Aurora by the Fra to be the modern Boswell to his Dr. Johnson.

The Hubbard story is the same story that has several times before appeared in print, and that Mr. Hubbard has many, many times told upon the lecture platform. It is his one stock lecture, boiled down and adapted, without other essential change. I have had the felicity of listening to it, and I am free to declare that it pleased me much when I heard it. I have read it in several periodicals, and it has always pleased me when I have read it. It is a skilfully constructed special plea, notable for the things it hints but does not say, and for the things it might have said but does not hint. It is a superb example of that species of priceless advertising which many business men are anxious to pay high rates for but cannot secure—the "pure reading notice."

To such as know the truth about the Roycroft enterprise, it appeals as conclusive evidence of the special talent of Mr. Hubbard, for it assuredly marks him as one among the very few real advertising artists now extant in America.

That it has been given currency by Mr. John Brisben Walker's magazine and The American Printer must greatly gratify Mr. Hubbard, and go far to fortify him in his high estimate of his splendid advertising abilities. Never since the departure of the great dean of the great guild of self-advertisers, the late lamented Phineas Taylor Barnum, have we seen his like; and it is entirely probable that no one who has read (and marvelled as he read) this autobiographic preachment, will ever again see his like. Such geniuses do not visit this planet in crowds, nor with every generation.

It is vain to point out the flaws in the Roycroft scheme. It has succeeded, and its success is its warrant, and the warrant of its prophet and promoter. It is quite useless to assert, as it would be to prove, that the Roycroft books are neither good literature nor worthy bookmaking; but it is easy to prove both propositions with respect to the product of Mr Hubbard's pen and shop, and the latter against the total product of the shop.

In one sense there has been no false pretense upon Mr. Hubbard's part. He has always wrought by daylight, and no reader can complain that there has been an assumption of virtue that did not reside in the stuff as it has been produced and promulgated. This in the literary sense only. What the Fra has written has had his hallmark stamped upon every page, and its intent and leading has been as apparent as are the motive and intent of the literature and pictures which fail to win the approval of Mr. Anthony Comstock. So frank, undisguised and undressed has Mr. Hubbard's motive ever been that his plainness of speech has several times of late descended to a plane of vulgarity so low as to make it impossible to refer to instances in decent society, much less quote condemnatory passages. He has pushed his raw, impudent and vulgar philistinism insistently over the borders of decency and tolerable daring, until the mention of his writings in the presence of ladies has become a breach of good breeding amounting almost to conscious and intended insult. So far as the reading of what Mr. Hubbard writes is concerned, it is a matter of taste and of education. For those who like that sort of stuff it is just the sort of stuff they like. For people of taste it works its own cure; they soon get surfeited, and are not long in determining its quality.

The general public is interested only slightly in the business affairs of business men. It has no real right to demand that it be consulted or confided in, except in a limited sense. So it is not a very severe indictment against a business man to allege, or even to prove, that his treatment of his employes is not ideal. That is a matter for the man and his employes to settle for themselves. It is, however, competent for the public to take such cognizance of the conduct of a given business as the owner and manager invites by his own descriptions and allegations. So, when Mr. Hubbard says, as he does, that: "All the money I made by my pen, all I get for lectures, all I make from my books, goes into the common fund of the Roycrofters—the benefit is for all," we may be pardoned if we take a little pains and a little time to consider the statement, and even seek for facts confirmatory or condemnatory. The statement itself admits of two constructions. The more obvious inference is that the Roycrofters are a communistic company, and that all participate in the benefits accruing from the very profitable business Mr. Hubbard has been doing at East Aurora these six or seven years past. It is scarcely possible to read another meaning in the statement thus made with the superficial appearance of sincerity, simplicity and straightforwardness. "The benefit is for all," says Mr. Hubbard. But it is necessary to "allow for the crawl" when reading the apparently frank avowals of some writers, especially such as set forth how they earn large sums of money and make public pretense of lofty philanthropy. If this declaration be scrutinized, and the whole confession-appreciation be carefully read, it will appear that the terms "Roycrofters" and "Elbert Hubbard" are regarded as synonymous by Mr. Hubbard. When he is speaking of the Roycrofters in this way he may mean it in a Pickwickian sense, or as that selfish man of tradition who told his wife: "What's yours is mine and what's mine is my own." Probably Mr. Hubbard has had himself made custodian of "the common fund of the Roycrofters," to serve without bonds. Certain it is that a somewhat diligent inquiry has failed to bring to light Roycrofters who benefit, by the great prosperity of Mr. Hubbard, beyond the meagre wages he pays his craftsmen; but some evidence is easily secured tending to show that the Roycroft workers earn much less than similar workers earn elsewhere. There are unsympathetic souls who put the matter more rawly than I am inclined to, and roundly declare that the socialistic features of life at East Aurora, as stated and intimated by Mr. Hubbard, have no existence.

The other side, the seamy side, of the Roycroft story has recently been presented by one of Mr. Hubbard's ex-lieutenants. (There is getting to be a goodly number of these ex-lieutenants.) This gentleman's name is Michael Monahan, from Ireland and New York. He spent a number of unhappy months at the Roycroft shop, as a useful literary man of all work. It is claimed that he wrote many of Mr. Hubbard's philistine-flavored pieces, and revised most of the Fra's manuscripts. It is also claimed that he was not generously treated with respect to his claims upon "the common fund." Whatever his grievances may be, they prompted him to hire the East Aurora Opera House to tell the townspeople what he thought of Elbert Hubbard; and he certainly did tell them. Mr. Hubbard was not present, having started away upon a lecture tour the same evening. Mr. Monahan, in his rich and impulsive Irish way, said some pretty severe things about Mr. Hubbard, and intimated that he would say more severe things more definitely at some future time. He did not say as many severe things, nor say them as picturesquely, as we had a right to expect, judging from the fervid and hot-blooded style of Mr. Monahan's writings, but what he said would not be pleasant for the ears of a self-respecting gentleman. He alluded to "the fake community idea, fake division of profits, fake limited editions, fake reformatory scheme, etc., etc." and he alluded to Mr. Hubbard as "this chattering, posturing prophet, who mountebanks them (the Roycroft workers) for the benefit of his own pocket."

I am afraid Mr. Hubbard is a hard taskmaster, and a not over-generous paymaster. But that is for him and his employes to discuss. Mr. Hubbard's morals do not form a subject for proper public discussion, unless some knight wishes to enter the ring with him and must seek for a vulnerable point in his armor in discussion of some of his uniquely vulgar pronouncements.

It is legitimate for us to inquire into the validity of Mr. Hubbard's pretensions as a maker of fine books, and to demand that in that matter he treat his public fairly, since he offers such wares for sale, asks large prices for them and makes certain claims regarding their worth. He claims to print books worthily and to bind them artistically. He offers, as an element of their value, to limit the sale of certain books to certain fixed quantities. Does he fulfill his explicit and implied pledges in these respects? Does he deliver such merchandise as he agrees to deliver? That he does not, forms the gravamen of the legitimate complaint that bookbuyers and the printing craft can make against Mr. Hubbard. His claim that the motto "not how cheap but how good" rules in his bookmaking is absurdly untenable, and the contract he makes to limit the sale of some issues to a stated number is gravely declared to be frequently violated.

About a year ago I pointed out in this periodical [See THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, August 24, 1901 v. lx., p. 321.—ED. P. W.] some of the defects in the Roycroft books. Since then the execution of the printing has improved, but the books continue to be planned upon inartistic lines and to be made up of material below the standard of merit alleged to be employed, so that they are in fact false pretenses, and are also false teachers of those who purchase them under the implied guarantee of the declarations made concerning them in Mr. Hubbard's announcements. While the composition and presswork are now generally well executed, the format and the general plan of the Roycroft books is often so faulty as to vie only with the work of amateurs. So radically do they depart from the forms and practices decreed by usage, by art and by taste, that it is a labor of supererogation to attempt to examine either the cause or the effect of the mechanical solecisms so numerously committed. They are stereotyped through the whole series of books issued from the Roycroft press, from "The Song of Songs" to "The Message to Garcia, and Thirteen Other Things." Not only is there this consistent and systematic ignoring of artistic treatment, but there is an equally persistent and continued foisting upon the buyer of inferior material—material different from that advertised as used.

In some measure the buyer of books is responsible if he is cheated in material and in literary merit. He should know the difference between literature and the product of Mr. Hubbard's pen, and if he does not he must expect sometimes to find sand in his literary sugar. Likewise he should learn the difference between Roycroft dyed "ooze calf" and the common dyed skins of commerce prepared for and sold to shoemakers, or be prepared to endure the pitying smile of the man who does happen to know. But against the fake "limited edition" there is no defence but bitter experience. When a publisher advertises his promise to print and sell only so many copies of a book, and deliberately duplicates these "limited editions" for sale in different sections of the country, so that there are in fact perhaps 1500 copies sold, instead of 300 as agreed, it is a fraudulent practice which calls only for sharp condemnation.

These things that are being said, more frequently and more freely and more positively, about the practices of the Roycroft shop, are hurting Mr. Hubbard, and they are hurting the fine-book trade. It is quite time for an authoritative word to be spoken, either confirming them and condemning the East Aurora enterprise, or disproving them and justifying the Roycrofters. While I believe the books made by Mr. Hubbard to be inartistic and unworthy the claims made for them, I do not like to believe that they are not only fustian but counterfeit and fraudulent fustian.

APRIL, the rainy month, is here. Now is the time to weed out the plugs, re-arrange the stock and to freshen up generally. Wherever you may be located don't fail to sprinkle your spring stock with the waters of good advertising, and your crop of profits will be plentiful.

SWEATSHOP PUBLISHING.

"If any one believes that the days of sweatshop publishing are past, let him consider," says the New York Sun, "the case of Frederick Baron Corvo and his contract with a certain supposably reputable firm of British publishers. Mr. Corvo undertook to gather material and write a book, 'Chronicles of the House of Borgia,' in seven months. He was to receive one pound a week and ten pounds more on publication. If the book went into a second edition he was to get twenty-five pounds additional. This concluded his right and title to the book. That is, under the most favorable circumstances, and if the book proved a success, he was to get in all about $300, dribbled along over a year or more! Certain revisions which perverted facts into serious historical errors were made without the author's consent. Thereupon he notified the publishers that the work, as amended, must not be published, over his name. It was so published and advertised. Mr. Corvo then disclosed the whole matter in the papers, explaining that he made no complaint against the American publishers, as he had had no negotiations with them concerning this book. As to the right of the firm to use the author's name, the courts may yet be called on to decide. Meantime it is interesting to note that men of scholarship and ability in England may be had at the present day for book work at $5 per week. Surely Grub Street nor the 'Wooden Galleries' of Balzac could underbid these rates."

WOOD PULP AND PAPER ON THE FREE LIST.

The Hon. Joel P. Heatwole, of Minnesota, introduced the following bill in the House of Representatives last month, which was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means and ordered to be printed:

A Bill to amend an Act to provide revenue for the Government and to encourage the industries of the United States, approved July twenty-fourth, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That clause three hundred and ninety-three and clause three hundred and ninety-six, Schedule M, "Pulps, papers, and books," of "An Act to provide revenue for the Government and to encourage the industries of the United States," approved July twenty-fourth, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, be, and the same are hereby, repealed.

Sec. 2. That clause six hundred and thirty-two of the free-list schedule of said Act is amended by adding thereto the following, to wit:

"Mechanically ground wood pulp, chemical wood pulp, bleached and unbleached, printing paper, unsized, sized, or glued, suitable for books and newspapers,"

Sec. 2. That this Act shall take effect and be in force from and after the first day of July, nineteen hundred and two.

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

The Booksellers' League gave its regular monthly dinner at the rooms of the Aldine Association, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York, on the evening of the 9th inst., the president, John A. Holden, in the chair. The first speaker of the evening was Mr. Everett T. Tomlinson, author of "A Jersey Boy in the Revolution," "Three Young Continentals," and a number of other well-known books for young people, who took for his subject "Reading for the Young." Mr. Tomlison contended that, inasmuch as almost the first spoken demand a child makes of its parents is for a story, it is reasonable to suppose that it is as natural a craving in children to be supplied with stories, as it is for them to be satisfied with milk before their teeth are grown. It then becomes the duty of the author to provide proper reading matter adapted for the intellects of healthy growing children. The idea of allowing children to browse among the masters is a delusion common to the people who regard the Child in the abstract, and is not generally applicable. Mr. James Barnes, assistant editor of Harper's Weekly, and also well known as the writer of a number of popular books for young people, entertained the company with a number of good stories admirably told. Dr. I. K. Funk, of the Funk & Wagnalls Company, concluded the evening's entertainment by speaking briefly on the subject "Higher Order of Books." He said if the subject had been "Higher Orders for Books" it would have pleased him better. He thought that no one could help more towards attaining both a "higher order of books" and "higher orders for books" than the bookseller—the former by preferring to sell the best in literature to the neglect of the trash, and the latter by making himself thorough master of the good points of every book he attempts to sell. He said he would rather have a tolerable book in the hands of a bookseller who understood his business than an excellent book in the hands of a tolerably good bookseller. The better bookseller would be able to make more money out of a poor book, than a poor bookseller could make out of the best book ever turned out by a publisher.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

"We have good reason to believe," says The Academy, "that during the summer Mr. George Meredith's 'Egoist,' dramatized by Mr. Sutro and revised by Mr. Meredith himself, will be produced at a London theatre. It is improbable, however, that the general public will be able to gain admission to the performances."

William Henry Carson, the author of "Hester Blair," will start soon for Italy where he will spend the summer in completing his next novel, "Tito." The book takes its title from the name of an Italian boy who is said to be a most remarkable character creation on the part of the author. "Hester Blair" has nearly gone through the third edition.

RICHARD BURTON, author of "Literary Likings," "Forces of Fiction," etc., has become the literary adviser of the Lothrop Publishing Company. Professor Burton is a Connecticut man, having been born at Hartford, in 1859. He is a graduate of Trinity College, of Hartford, and of Johns Hopkins. He taught Old English in Johns Hopkins for a short time, and then became managing editor of the New York Churchman, 1888-1889. After a stay abroad for a year he became literary editor of the Hartford Courant, a position that he ably filled for nearly eight years. For two years he was associate editor of Warner's "Library of the World's Best Literature." In 1898 he became Professor of English Literature in the University of Minnesota, a position that he has held until recently. Professor Burton has also written several volumes of verse and is widely known as a lecturer.

IN recognition of his long, busy and fruitful life as a journalist, a minister, a philanthropist and a man of letters, several thousand of Boston's leading citizens gathered in Symphony Hall on the evening of April 3 to honor the Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale and congratulate him on his eightieth birthday. Nearly every sect and race in the city was represented, and many letters were received containing tributes to the work of Dr. Hale. Among the letters were one from President Roosevelt and one from Senator Lodge. One of the pleasing features in connection with the celebration, but one that was not put down on the evening's programme, was the presentation to Dr. Hale of a substantial sum of money which he found upon his return home from the hall. Senator Hoar, who made the address of congratulation, said in conclusion: "This prophet is honored in his own country. There will be a place found for him somewhere in the house of many mansions. I do not know what will be the employment of our dear friend in the world whose messages he has been bringing to us so long. But I like to think he will be sent on some errands like that of the presence which came to Ben Adhem with a great wakening light, rich and like a lily in bloom, to tell him that the name of him who loved his fellow-men led all the names of those whom the love of God had blessed." In response Dr. Hale said: "Put yourself in my place. I am to do something which I have all along advised young men not to do, and that is to talk about myself. It would seem for a moment as if we must look backward and not forward." Dr. Hale then spoke briefly of his early life, and said that he was urged to enter the navy when a young man, then to take a position in a large manufactory of bricks, and finally he learned the printing business. He could not tell why it was that he had entered the life of a minister. With great deftness he turned the thoughts of the audience from himself to the work of the minister, and finally toward the future and the great opportunity of mankind in the present century. He closed with the words: "Each is to live for all and all are to live for each other."

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE Boston Public Library makes a practice of printing in the issues of its Monthly Bulletin selections from its rich collection of manuscripts and historical documents. In the April issue there are printed letters of Henry Dearborn, Elihu Chauncey, Levi Woodbury, Benjamin Waterhouse, and Richard M. Johnson, ranging from the years 1813 to 1826.

THE Monthly Summary of Commerce and Finance of the United States, prepared by O. P. Austin, of the Bureau of Statistics, U. S. Treasury Department, for February, contains a "Partial Bibliography of Works Treating of Tariff Systems," appended to a survey of "Modern Tariff Systems," showing the maximum and minimum, conventional and general tariff systems of the principal countries of the world. (pp. 3167, 3168.)

THE SUPERINTENDENT OF DOCUMENTS, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., has just sent out "Tables of and Annotated Index to the Congressional Series of United States Public Documents." This volume forms the second part of a complete list of the publications of the United States Government known to have been printed which is now being prepared under the direction of the Superintendent of Documents, and nearing completion. This volume is presented first because as it contains a list of and index to the documents of the Fifteenth to the Fifty-second Congress it is deemed of greatest interest. The list is not extended beyond the Fifty-second Congress, because all documents printed by the government since the beginning of the Fifty-third Congress are entered in the catalogues compiled and published by the government under the act approved January 12, 1895. The first part of the series will contain a list of the documents of the First to the Fourteenth Congress, covering the period from 1789 to 1817; the third part will have a list of the reports and miscellaneous publications of the Executive Departments, bureaus and other offices of the government printed without Congressional numbers. The compiler of this work is William S. Burns, who also devised a scheme for ready and systematic reference to the documents.. (769 p. 4°, hf. mor.) From the same office comes the "Index to the subjects of the Documents and Reports, and to the Committees, Senators and Representatives presenting them [to Fifty-sixth Congress, second session, December 3, 1900, to March 4, 1901,] with tables of the same in numerical order." (236 p. 8°, cl.)

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Blue Sky Magazine, published at Chicago, having outlived its old chap-book form, now makes its debut, somewhat enlarged, as a twenty-cent monthly. It is attractively gotten up and filled with literary matter of a high order.

THE GOLSAN PUBLISHING CO., Philadelphia, will begin publishing in April a monthly magazine to be entitled The Inner Set and Leisure Hours, which succeeds the old magazine, Leisure Hours. The editor will be Logan Golsan, the head of the Golsan Publishing Co.

The report was drawn up for the assignee by an expert accountant, and shows the total assets to be $25,804.35. The total liabilities are $114,651.89, distributed as follows: Accounts payable, $18,566.45; notes payable to general creditors, $19,563.45; notes payable to Isaac H. Platt, $48,328.68; Platt's open account, $227.63; loan to Miley, $2000; loan to Glover, $5965.68; capital stock, $20,000. The liabilities, less the capital stock, it will be seen, are $94,651.29. The assignee reports that if the business is wound up and the assets turned into cash there will be left for the creditors about 25 cents on the dollar. On the other hand, it was intimated that, on certain conditions, the claims of Messrs. Platt, Miley and Glover may be released to the company. If this is done, and the creditors permit the business to be continued, the assets to start with would be sufficient to pay approximately 65 cents on the dollar.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Although the petition in bankrutpcy of the George M. Hill Company was filed some time ago, there has been no adjudication. There have been several examinations of the officers of the company, and some of the attorneys have gone into the matter very exhaustively, seeking to discover assets, but as yet no statement has been made. The liabilities are estimated at about $300,000. The assets it is almost impossible to estimate with any degree of accuracy. A certain portion of the business, such as subscription books and contracts, which had been entered into before the filing of the petition, are now being carried out, by order of the Court, at a profit to the estate.

DALLAS, TEX.—The Dallas Book Company, through its manager, J. F. Smith, filed an assignment with the county clerk on March 25, turning over his entire stock of merchandise, cash on hand, etc. John A. Ewton was named as assignee. The assets range in the neighborhood of $20,000. The liabilities amount to $14,780.02.

NEW YORK CITY.—The book publishing business conducted and owned for the last twenty years by A. L. Burt, will, on April 15, be incorporated under the laws of the State of New York, and from that date the business will be conducted under the name of the A. L. Burt Company. The ownership and management will be wholly in the hands of Mr. Burt and his three sons, as in the past.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—Albert W. Bell, who has been connected about fourteen years with the Pacific Coast Depository of the Methodist Book Concern, has severed his connections with that concern, and has established himself as Pacific Coast agent for Dr. Malinda Goldson's "Family Medical Book." He will also act as agent for the author in establishing agencies for the sale of her books in the United States and in Canada. Mr. Bell intends to develop a general subscription book business, a branch in which he has had considerable experience.

He also announces that from April 15 onwards the small edition of Kenneth Grahame's books, "The Golden Age," "Dream Days" and "Pagan Papers," will be published at $1 net, instead of at $1.25 regular.

The work is of value to students of the history of mediæval law and art, the history of economics, the knowledge of Middle High German, as well as for the study of costumes and arms. The price of the complete work will be 180 marks.

JAMES POTT & CO. have in preparation a work of interest to the general reader, as well as to the student of art, in "Five Great Painters of the Victorian Era," by Sir Wyke Bayliss, president of the Royal Society. The painters chosen are Leighton, Millais, Burne-Jones, Watts and Holman Hunt. The illustrations, which number twenty-two, reproduce the most characteristic work of each painter. The fact that Sir Wyke was a personal friend of the men about whom he writes gives an additional interest to the work.

TENNANT & WARD, 287 Fourth Avenue, New York, by an arrangement with John Murray, of London, have undertaken the publication in America of "The Lady Poverty," a thirteenth century allegory. The original, entitled "Sacrum Commercium Beati Francisci cum Domina Paupertate," is noteworthy as the first book published concerning Saint Francis of Assisi, being completed within a year after the saint's death, (1227.) The translation, with a bibliographic introduction and two appendices, is the work of Montgomery Carmichael, and is the first English version of the original.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO. have nearly ready "The Path to Rome," by Hilaire Belloc, in which the author of "Robespierre," etc., describes a walk of six hundred miles taken by him last summer from the town in Lorraine where he was once in garrison to Rome; a new and cheaper edition of "The History of Trade Unionism," by Sidney and Beatrice Webb, with map, tables and a bibliography; "The Old Royal Palace of Whitehall," by Edgar Sheppard, D.D.; also, "Color Problems," a practical manual for the lay student of color, by Emily Noyes Vanderpool, with 117 plates in color.

MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO. will publish this spring a collection of letters sent and received by Daniel Webster, collected by C. H. Tyne of the University of Pennsylvania. Some of the letters included in this collection are said to be interesting from the light they throw upon Webster's personality; others are valuable additions to the records of American statesmanship; and it is said that quite a number are from the foremost men of that period. They have in preparation a translation, by Theodore Murr, of an old French translation of the court notes of Jeanne d'Arc's trial.

E. P. DUTTON & CO. are publishing a very timely book on "The West Indies and the Empire," by H. de R. Walker, whose book on "Australian Democracy" has received favorable notice. Mr. Walker is a keen observer, and gives some very valuable facts regarding industry and trade conditions. Present conditions of government and the question of reciprocity also receive the author's attention. The same firm also are publishing "The Domain of Art," by Sir W. Martin Conway, Slade Professor of Fine Arts at Cambridge, who is also a famous mountain climber and explorer.

DAVIS & HARVEY, 1112 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, will sell at auction, under the management of Stan V. Henkels, on April 24 and 25, a fine collection of engravings and etchings, water colors and paintings, etc., belonging to the estate of the late Thomas William Hall, of Baltimore. On May 1 and 2 they will dispose of a lot of rare and scarce Americana, including an extraordinary collection of pamphlets on the history of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and the West, as well as works relating to the Civil War, etc., from the library of a well-known Philadelphia collector. On May 7 and 8 they will offer the library of the late Charles Caleb Cresson, of Germantown, Pa., containing probably the largest and most important collection of works on the Quakers in any private library in this country.

A. C. MCCLURG & CO. have just ready "The Prince Incognito," by Elizabeth Wormeley Latimer, whose hero is Rinaldo D'Este, cousin to Louis XV., who attempts to give up his rank and title for the Huguenot maiden he loves; "Gertrude Dorrance," a first novel by May Fisher, author of "A Group of French Critics," etc.; "Helpful Thoughts," new selections from Marcus Aurelius, by Walter Lee Brown; "Little Leaders" and "Editorial Echoes," by William Morton Payne, two volumes that represent the author's best contributions to The Dial in the past twelve years, covering a wide range of subjects within the literary field; also, "Nestlings of Forest and Marsh," close-range studies of our familiar birds, by Irene Grosvenor Wheelock, with sixteen full-page photogravures and over sixty illustrations in the text.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in press a "Political History of Slavery," a posthumous work by William Henry Smith, a well-known journalist and for the last year of his life manager of the Associated Press. Mr. Smith, before the Civil War, was engaged with R. B. Hayes and other abolitionists of Cincinnati, in forming the Republican party of that city. When the War broke out Governor Brough of Ohio appointed him his private secretary; and at the close of the war he was twice elected secretary of the State of Ohio. Whitelaw Reid will furnish an introduction to the work. They also announce an edition of "Châteaubriand's Memoirs," as translated into English by Alexander Teixeira De Mattos. This work will be in six volumes, with many illustrations from contemporary sources, and is the first thorough rendering into our language of the famous Mémoires D'Outre-Tombe.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on the 18th inst. "The Kentons," W. D. Howells' new story of a family of "very natural and very human people;" "A Tale of True Love, and Other Poems," the latest collection of poems by Alfred Austin, the Poet-Laureate of England; "William Black, Novelist," by Sir Wemyss Reid, the intimate personal biography of the great novelist, written by a famous writer and editor who was long Mr. Black's intimate friend; also, a new novel by Mrs. W. K. Clifford, entitled "Margaret Vincent," the romance of a young English girl who is the granddaughter of an Earl, but who is brought up in this country in ignorance of her aristocratic origin. They have just completed their "Encyclopædia of History," in ten volumes, which is sold by subscription. They will bring out this spring a volume entitled "Meditations of an Autograph Hunter," by Adrian H. Joline, a well-known collector, which will have as illustrations reproductions of letters and engravings.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS will complete in two months the Oxford India paper edition of Dickens's work in seventeen volumes, by publishing the last five volumes containing "Martin Chuzzlewit," "The Old Curiosity Shop," "Barnaby Rudge," "Little Dorrit," and "Our Mutual Friend." They have just reissued Professor Arber's series of "British Anthologies," in ten volumes, in an illustrated edition, under the title of "Selections from the English Poets." The illustrations consist of over sixty authentic portraits of the poets. They announce a new history dealing in great detail with the peninsular war. It is being written by C. W. C. Oman, who is Deputy Professor of Modern History at Oxford, and who has already written largely on historical subjects. One of his latest works was a study of the art of war in the Middle Ages. Napier's history of the peninsular war stands by itself, a book apart in its renown. But since Napier wrote much fresh information bearing upon the great campaign has come to light, and this Mr. Oman will utilize.

DEIGHTON, BELL & CO., Cambridge, Eng., will publish for the Council of Trinity College, Cambridge, a facsimile of the manuscript of Milton's minor poems, the manuscript of which came into possession of the college in 1691, with a large collection of books, the gift of Sir Henry Puckering, alias Newton. Mr. Aldis Wright superintended the reproduction of the manuscript, which consists of 47 pages, 40 of them being in Milton's autograph. The contents are: "Arcades;" "Song, Blest pair of Sirens;" "Letter to a Friend;" "On Time;" "Upon the Circumcision;" "[Comus] A Maske;" "Lycidas;" "First Sketch of Paradise Lost;" "Notes from Old Testament History;" "Notes from Early English History;" "Notes for Poems on Scripture Subjects: Abram from Morea, Baptistes, Sodom, Adam Unparadized;" "Notes from Scotch Stories;" "Moabitides or Phineas;" "Christus Patiens;" "On the Forcers of Conscience;" and the following sonnets [the numbers taken from Professor Masson's edition] II., VIII., IX., X., XI., XII., XIII., XIV., XV., XVI., XVII., XXI., XXII., XXIII. The price will be 42*s*. net.

STREET & SMITH will shortly publish the following cloth-bound books: "Bits of Broken China," a collection of novelettes of life in "Chinatown," New York, showing "John" as he really is from day to day, by William E. S. Fales, with illustrations; "Things Generally," a number of funny sketches with funny pictures, by Max Adeler; a new work on table tennis, now called "Ping Pong," by M. G. Ritchie, of the International Games Club, and Arnold Parker, winner of the Queen's Hall Tournament, edited for American players by Walter H. Bronson, with extra chapters on new positions and new strokes, with a number of illustrations; a new edition of "Tons of Treasure," a famous story of Mexican treasure hunting, by William Henry Bishop; also "Her Wedding Interlude," a story by Frederick R. Burton. They have in preparation a new book on bugs and kindred creatures, by Harvard Sutherland, whose sketches on bugs, in Ainslee's Magazine, have attracted some attention; also, a new novel by Herbert E. Hamblen; a new juvenile of the War of 1812, by Lieutenant Lionel Lownsberry; and a new tale for girls, by Evelyn Raymond.

THE OPEN COURT PUBLISHING COMPANY, Chicago, will publish shortly a translation, by Albert J. Edmunds, from the Pâli of the famous collection of Buddhist religious maxims known as the Dhammapada, or "Hymns of the Faith;" also, new editions of Professor Ernst Mach's well-known work, "The Science of Mechanics;" of De Morgan's "Studies and Difficulties of Mathematics;" and of Dr. Paul Carus's translation of Lao-Tze's "Tao Teh King," or "Canon on Reason and Virtue." The two latest issues of the Philosophical Classics issued by this firm are Kant's "Prolegomena" and Leibnitz's "Discourse on Metaphysics, Correspondence with Arnauld," and "Monadology." Kant's "Prolegomena" is a brief work, containing in readable and popular form the gist of Kant's philosophy, and was declared by Schopenhauer to be the most elucidative of all his works. The collection of Leibnitz's writings is also representative of his important philosophy at its best; the bulk of it has never before appeared in English. The purpose of these Philosophical Classics is to furnish to students and general readers at a low price the best writings of the great philosophers.

DODD, MEAD & CO. have just ready "Ellen Terry and Her Sisters," by T. Edgar Pemberton, an exceedingly interesting biography of one who for so many years has stood at the head of her profession, and of her talented sisters, Kate, Florence, and Marion; "Thomas Henry Huxley," by Edward Clodd, which gives the most salient features of Huxley's character and indicates his attitude toward the burning questions of his time; "'Sister Beatrice' and 'Ardiane and Barbe Bleu,'" two plays by Maurice Maeterlinck—"Sister Beatrice" being a miracle play and "Ardiane" a poetic rendering of the story of the familiar hero villian Bluebeard; "Lord Allingham, Bankrupt," by Marie Manning, a story that deals with real people and phases of life in England and on a Western ranch; "None but the Brave," by Hamblen Sears, a story of adventure turning upon the attempt to capture Benedict Arnold after his treachery and escape to the enemy; "St. Francis of Assisi," six addresses in Lent, by the Rev. Dr. J. H. McIlvaine, of the Calvary Church, Pittsburg, Pa.; also, "The Malvern Country," by Bertram C. A. Windle, a guide book through the most interesting of the midland counties, with illustrations by Edmund H. New.

Henry T. Coates & Co. announce a work on "Coffee—its History, Classification and Description," by Joseph M. Walsh, a book of useful and accurate information on everything pertaining to coffee, with a number of illustrations. Mr. Walsh has also prepared for Messrs. Coates & Co. two works on tea: "Tea, its History and Mystery," a work of considerable research and utility to the tea trade in general, and "Tea-Blending as a Fine Art," a work specially designed for the use and instruction of those engaged in the tea and grocery business, containing formulas for the scientific and judicious combination of the different varieties and grades of tea. Both works are illustrated. They also announce a volume on the "Principles and Practices of Whist," by Lennard Leigh and Ernest Bergbolt, with examples, illustrative deals, critical endings, mathematical calculations, etc., including an essay on probabilities, by William H. Whitfield; and a new edition of Max Adeler's "Out of the Hurly Burly," with nearly four hundred illustrations by A. B. Frost and others. The new book by William Henry Babcock announced by Henry T. Coates & Co. is not "The Tower of Wye," as noted in our last week's issue, but "Kent Fort Manor." "The Tower of Wye," as our readers will remember, was published a year ago and met with a flattering reception.

Charles Scribner's Sons have just published a popular treatise on Egyptian scarabs in art and history, by John Ward, entitled "The Sacred Beetle," illustrated with eighty-seven plates, giving examples of five hundred scarabs and cylinders. They have in preparation an American edition of "The Correspondence of Lady Sarah Lennox," (1745-1826,) who was the daughter of the second Duke of Richmond and successively the wife of Sir Thomas Charles Bunbury and of the Honorable George Napier. The correspondence contains a vivid and most interesting picture of the public life and daily intimacies of the most notable figures in England during eighty important years in history. The Cornwallis correspondence is of peculiar interest to American readers, though there is much besides this in reference to the American colonies that is fascinating reading as well as material for the historian. The work will appear in one volume, and will be illustrated. They announce for early publication a new volume of the Semitic Series, entitled "Hebrews: Ethics and Religion," by Archibald Duff, Professor of Old Testament Theology in Yorkshire Independent United College, Bradford, Eng. Professor Duff discusses the early Hebrew life, the Jahwistic school of literature, the Prophets of Goodness, 800-700 B.C., the period of formal thought upon the moral basis, political reorganization, 700-625 B.C., and the theology and ethics of the Hebrews in exile. In May they will publish "A Pasteboard Crown," a novel of the New York stage, by Clara Morris, which, as a revelation of theatrical life by one of authority, is said to be altogether frank and convincing; also, a novel of modern life, entitled "The Courage of Conviction," by T. R. Sullivan, author of "Tom Sylvester," etc.

The Macmillan Company will publish towards the end of this month Charles Major's new novel, "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall." The plot is centered round Haddon Hall, famous in history as one of the places which sheltered Mary Queen of Scots during her captivity. The story itself is one of the romantic attachment and elopement of Dorothy Vernon and young John Manners, in spite of the opposition of parents and guardians, an incident that has long filled a romantic place in the more personal annals of Elizabethan history. The time is around 1560. They announce the following: "The Virginian, a Horseman of the Plains," a Western love story, by Owen Wister; "The Scenery of England," by Sir John Lubbock, now Lord Avebury, which is said to be written with the author's old time skill and charm; "The Lower South in American History," by William Garrott Brown, whose contributions to the Atlantic Monthly on various phases of southern political and social history have attracted much attention during the past eighteen months; "The Italian Renaissance in England," by Lewis Einstein, who traces the Italian influence in England from the beginning of the fifteenth century until the death of Elizabeth; "The American Federal State," by Roscoe Lewis Ashley, a comprehensive civics text-book designed especially for use in those advanced classes which combine a course in civics with that in American history; "Elements of Greek," by Francis Kingsley Ball of the Phillips Exeter Academy; "University Text-Book of Botany," by Professor Douglas Houghton Campbell of Leland Stanford University, with original illustrations drawn from the native flora; a new volume in the series of Great Masters in Painting and Sculpture, on Sir David Wilkie by Lord Ronald Gower, with eighty-eight illustrations; "The Sermon on the Mount: its literary structure and didactic purposes," by Professor B. W. Bacon; a revised edition of the third edition of W. Hempel's "Methods of Gas Analysis," revised by the author and the translator, Professor L. M. Dennis of Cornell University; also the "Ohio State Supplement" to Tarr and McMurry's School Geographies, prepared by Stella S. Wilson, head of the Science Department of the Central High School, Columbus, O.

NONE BUT THE BRAVE—

None but the Brave—

A Tale of the Revolution

By HAMBLEN SEARS

THIS is a rattling good story of adventure, laid in the fall and winter of the year 1780, during the American Revolution. The scene is largely that interesting and much-disputed territory on the east bank of the Hudson, between Tarrytown and Croton Point, respectively the outposts of the opposing armies. The hero, a young American officer, and the heroine, a Tory maiden from New York, are constantly thrown into difficulties and discussions because of the diametrically opposite views they take as to contemporary affairs, and the plot is complicated by the fact that they are all the time falling in love with one another.

General Washington, Sir Henry Clinton, Benedict Arnold, and Major André, besides many other historic characters, figure in the story. The pictures of social life in New York under the British, and of the life in such places as the Sugar House Prison, are of great historic value.

The story, which is a thoroughly American one, is of unusual interest and sustained power, and carries the reader along from page to page with an ever-increasing enthusiasm. It is prophesied that the book will be one of the most popular of the year.

THE thousands of people who have been delighted by Miss Ethel Barrymore in "Captain Jinks" will welcome this book of the play by Clyde Fitch. It is illustrated with photographs and reproductions of the artist's sketches for the costumes. The text itself has been changed and descriptions added to make a reading version.

The Coast of Freedom

THE first "self-made American" was probably Sir William Phips, whose romantically adventurous life included more excitement than a writer of fiction would dare to weave around one personality. Following the suggestions of the old records, Miss Adele Marie Shaw has made a most vigorous tale of treasure-seeking in the West Indies and life among the Massachusetts Indians and in Boston at the time of the Witchcraft Trials. It is a first book which should add another "successful" author to the lists.

Like the former volumes the books are edited by Bliss Perry.

PUBLISHERS who safeguard crevices through which high binding bills creep, are ultimately bound to lead the procession in the onward march of progress. Just stop long enough in the whirl of your busy hours to consider the vast importance and advantage to your interests which a connection with me implies. A line to me either to call or submit samples and estimates will have the desired effect. The annual sum total I am positive I can save you in your binding account is sufficient to provide a dividend, the amount of which some of the best publishers don't earn. In spite of being your lowest bidder I will give you the highest character of work, employing only the highest priced labor, thus obtaining the best possible results. My plant and facilities are unequalled. Don't allow yourselves to be blinded by cant and misrepresentation. The constant hum of my busy plant is a sufficient answer to those who disregard the broad plane of justice and equality. Even those publishers who have their own plants find that I can do their work cheaper and better than they can produce it themselves.

AUCTION SALES.

[Under this heading advance notices will be inserted without charge, of book auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.]

THE collection of Marshall Clifford Lefferts, which was privately sold last fall to George H. Richmond, is to be dispersed through the auction room. Bangs & Co. will sell from April 21 to 24 the early English portion, including the works of the chief Elizabethan, Jacobean and Restoration authors. Among the notable prizes are the Earl of Surrey's "Poems," 1567, of which the number of known copies can be counted upon one hand, in probably as fine condition as any that is likely to come upon the market; a superb copy of the second edition of Queen Elizabeth's Prayer Book; Coryat's Crudities, in the original vellum; and the original calf copy of the first edition of Bunyan's famous "Holy War," with the rare original portrait by White. Other rare books there are in plenty had we space to enumerate them. (1460 lots.) The Americana will be sold some time next month, in London, through Sotheby's.

THE library of the late Lieut.-Colonel Edward George Hibbert, who belonged to a family well known as book collectors, to be dispersed in London this month, contains copies of each of the four folio editions of Shakespeare. The first impression, 1623, according to the London Academy, is tall but defective; the fourth, 1685, is little valued either by the student or the collector. Last month the highest sum ever obtained at auction, £690, was unexpectedly paid for the relatively unimportant Second Folio, 1632, having the rare Smethwick title-page—in the Lenox Library, New York, are six variations of this title-page. There are also rarities by Byron, Tennyson, Shelley—notably the "Adonais," rudely printed with the types of Didot, at Pisa, in 1821—and Sir Thomas More; Charles I.'s copy, with his motto and signature, of the first folio edition of Ben Jonson; and of literary as well as bibliographical interest are Shenstone's "Poems Upon Various Occasions," with a probably unpublished poem in his handwriting; and Gray's "Poems," 1775, with notes, explanatory, biographical, critical, in Horace Walpole's handwriting, the book having been in his possession.

APRIL 14-18, 3 P.M.—Library of the late John E. Burton, of Lake Geneva, Wis., including a fine collection of miscellaneous books, also Americana and a notable collection of Lincolniana. Pt. 1. (1602 lots.)—Bangs.

APRIL 15, 7:30 P.M.—Lincolniana—a collection of engravings, lithographs, books, eulogies, pamphlets, etc., relating in whole or in part to Abraham Lincoln. (314 lots.)—John Anderson, jr.

APRIL 15, 7:30 P.M.—Portraits of George Washington and of Abraham Lincoln, including some rare items; also, rare dramatic portraits, autographs, views of New York, etc. (320 lots.)—John Anderson, jr.

APRIL 17, 18, 7:30 P.M.—Private library of W. B. Williams, of Newark, N. J., including Americana, books on the drama, etc., and the original receipt books of the Bowery Theatre from 1845-1848. (687 lots.)—John Anderson, jr.

PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL

(Thirtieth Year)

In response to the desires of the book trade we shall publish the forthcoming issue of THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL, to be ready at the opening of the active Fall season, in August, 1902, to the publishers' catalogues contained therein. The books will be indexed by author, title and, practically, by subject or class. The name of series, the price, and name of publisher will also be given, so that any book contained in the ANNUAL may be located at once by whatsoever clue the user may have. The Index will be printed in two columns to the page, in readable type, full face letters being used to make reference to authors' names more convenient.

With a Complete Index

The bulk of the volume, as heretofore, will consist of the latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm names, with the smaller lists and advertisements of single books at the end. The patent "Duplex Index," having the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, enables instantaneous reference to the catalogues and the lists, whether the book is open or shut.

These lists, thus bound together, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working tool as to have made THE TRADE LIST ANNUAL for upwards of a quarter of a century indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books. With the reference index to the books listed in the publishers' catalogues its practical usefulness will be enhanced an hundred fold.

The work will be offered to the trade in two styles:

With the Index, ... $5 00
Without the Index, ... 1 50

if ordered and paid for in advance of publication. Orders, stating whether the volume is desired with or without the index, should be registered at

The Office of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY
(P. O. Box 943) 298 Broadway, New York

☞ We shall also supply the new volume of the ENGLISH REFERENCE LIST for which we control the American market. Further particulars as to price will be given later.

To CLERKS in Bookstores, LIBRARIANS and Assistants, or to ANY CITIZEN of the United States or Canada:

The sum of $200.00 is offered through us by a large and well-known New York publishing house, as follows:

To anyone suggesting the best idea for a new book, set of books, or revival of an old book on any subject, (fiction or otherwise,) we will pay $100.00, and to the second and third best $50.00 each. The following points will be considered as most important in making decisions:

1st.—The book or set of books which will, in the publishers' opinion, be most salable.

2d.—The book or set of books on which the sale is most likely to continue.

Suggestions received up to May 25th, 1902. The decisions will be made July 1st by the publishers through us, and no appeal can be made from their judgment.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY

Address all answers to "SUGGESTION," care of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, New York.
